

ABSTRACT

A shaped product, which travels from a shaping die, is passed through a delimiting space between a pressing roller provided in a floating frame of a pressing member and a windowpane introduced in under the pressing roller 5 to be forcibly fitted to the windowpane. Thus, the shaped product is uniformly unified to a peripheral portion of the windowpane by preventing variations in a adhesion force from occurring.